Data Protection Act

For the purposes of the Data Protection Act 1998 you consent to the processing by the Theatre and its officers of any Personal Data (as above) relating to you as may be necessary for the administration of the Theatre. "Personal Data" and "processing" have the meanings set out in the Data Protection Act 1998.

Photos and Videos

Still and video images of members may be taken during productions for use in publicity material including the Theatre Internet sites.

Child Protection

In order to comply with the latest regulations when assisting younger members to dress for the rehearsals and performances, we would prefer that parents help with their own young children. If this is not possible, an authorized dressing assistant will be made available. This person will be checked in line with the latest police recommendations.

Social Media

By becoming a member you agree to abide by the constitution (which is available to read on request) which among other things states that you must not bring the Theatre into disrepute on any social media sites including Facebook and Twitter. Failure to abide by the constitution might result in expulsion from the Theatre.
